Reporting on Life in Post-apartheid South Africa

You will work in your group to prepare a news report on the events and issues shown in one of the images you examined. Your teacher will assign an image to your group. When it's time, one member of your group will be asked to act as the news reporter and present your story. After the reporter presents, the audience will have the chance to ask the reporter questions about the story.

Step 1: Circle the topic of your photograph your group has been assigned.

- Politics
- Job opportunities
- Education
- Living conditions

Step 2: Discuss how a news reporter would report the answers to the questions on Handout B: Questions for Reporters. Make sure everyone in your group is prepared to present your group’s report. Everyone should be prepared to be the news reporter.

Audience, come up with one question for the reporter on each topic listed above.

Step 3: Discuss with your group how to deliver your news story like a reporter. Use visual and written information from your Interactive Student Notebook to brainstorm ways to make your report realistic.
